MEANWHILE SITE

What is a 'meanwhile site' and what do we plan to do with ours at Wellington Place?

DAMP & MOULD

How to reduce condensation and prevent damp and mould during the colder months.

Welcome to The Wave

I'd like to say a big thank you to everyone who got involved with our tenant and community awards at the end of September (page 4). It was a joy to hear so many stories and examples of the good things happening in our communities. Well done once again to all our nominees and winners!

As we approach the coldest months of the year, a reminder to stay vigilant of any signs of damp or mould inside your home. Turn to page 13 for some tips and advice to reduce condensation, and please remember to tell us straight away if you spot damp or mould.

Since our last magazine there have been a few changes to note at Harbour Homes. We have welcomed three new directors and four new Board Members (page 10). We are also pleased to introduce Jenny, our new Tenant Participation Co-ordinator, on page 8.

Happy reading!

Heather Kiteley, Chief Executive

FESTIVE OPENING HOURS

Our office at 108 Constitution Street will be open as normal until Wednesday 23 December. The office will be closed all day on Thursday 24 December, and our phone lines will remain open until 12:30pm.

We will be closed for the holidays from Friday 25 December and will return on Tuesday 5 January 2027. During the break, you can still report emergency repairs via our out-of-hours phone service (0800 783 7937).

We'd like to wish all who celebrate a very merry Christmas and a happy new year! To find out about festive activities being organised with tenants this year, go to page 22.

THE NORTH EDINBURGH COMMUNITY AWARDS!

We held our annual Community Awards night and Leith's Big Bingo on 30 September at The Bakery in Leith.

Our tenant and community awards night, known as The North Edinburgh Awards, is all about celebrating what makes Leith and north Edinburgh an amazing place to live.

Before the awards, we asked tenants and members of the community to tell us about the neighbours, groups and volunteers who are making a difference to them. The nominations we received were kind, heartfelt and a reflection of the incredible communities we have here in Leith and north Edinburgh.

There could only be one winner for each category on the night, but every person or group nominated has made a difference to someone's life. We congratulate every nominee and thank them for their role in making Leith and north Edinburgh a fantastic place to live!

Good Neighbour Award: Joan Robertson

In the Good Neighbour category, winner Joan Robertson, described by her neighbours as a "lifesaver in many ways", was recognised for her kindness. Joan often goes above and beyond to look after her neighbours by taking in parcels, looking after pets and keeping contact details in case anything happens. She was also nominated for Community Champion for her work in the wider Leith community, including at the Leith Walk Police Box.

On winning the Good Neighbour Award, Joan said: "I'm absolutely gobsmacked. You just get on and do it. Do as you would be done by."

Community Group Award: YMCA Edinburgh and Pilmeny Development Project for their Girls Wellbeing Groups

The Community Group Award was shared by the Girls Wellbeing Groups run by YMCA Edinburgh and the Pilmeny Development Project.

Girls attend the groups for many reasons, including anxiety, stress, low confidence and friendship difficulties. The groups provide a safe space to develop confidence, friendships, self-care and life skills.

"We've worked hard to get the group to where it is and it's nice to have some recognition in the community."

On receiving the award, Dawn Munro from YMCA Edinburgh, who runs the groups, said: "I think the girls will all be really chuffed with it. It's really important to empower young girls with life skills. Our group is all about improving physical, emotional, mental and social wellbeing. The world isn't in a great place for young girls and women. But because our group starts at age eight, we can then transition the girls throughout the key stages of life."

Nicola Hutchinson, from the Pilmeny Development Project, said: "We've worked hard to get the group to where it is and it's nice to have some recognition in the community because it's been going for over five years."

Dawn and Nicola were joined by Robyn, who started out as an attendee at the Girls Wellbeing Group and now works with the group as a young volunteer.

Community Champion: Lisa Petrie

Lisa began campaigning for tighter restrictions on the sale of knives following the death of her 22-year-old son, John McNab, in Leith in September 2025.

She is campaigning for all knives to be placed in locked cabinets to crack down on shoplifting and ensure knife sales are carefully monitored.

She has also been distributing bleed kits across Edinburgh. Her work was recently recognised in the Scottish Parliament, where First Minister John Swinney committed to making the kits available at community hubs across Scotland.

On receiving her award, Lisa said: "I'm absolutely delighted. I didn't expect it. I'm overwhelmed. I started this to raise awareness and to save someone else from going through that, kids and adults. So I'm absolutely blown away by this."

Lisa is now hoping to get into schools across Edinburgh to tell her story. She said: "I think kids relate more to a realistic story than something from a textbook, so if I need to go around every school in Edinburgh to tell my story and John's story, then I will.

We're looking at changing the law and we'll keep pushing for bleed kits."

Special Recognition: The Leith Legends

The final award of the evening went to Harbour Homes' Leith Legends. They took on a challenge to 'March to the Match' virtually by walking the 3,070-mile distance from Edinburgh to Boston at locations around the city.

They finished in time for Scotland's first World Cup game, then walked enough steps to get home again.

A huge thank you to everyone who nominated their neighbours and familiar faces in the community. Without your kind words, many of these stories would go unheard. Congratulations once again to all our nominees and winners!

MEET JENNY WHYTE

Jenny is our Tenant Participation Co-ordinator at Harbour Homes.

Tell us a little about what you do

I'm the Tenant Participation Co-ordinator, so I work with tenants and colleagues at Harbour Homes to ensure that tenants are heard and included in decision making. Part of this is helping tenants and Harbour Homes to better understand and communicate with each other.

What did you do previously?

I've worked in the voluntary sector for nearly 20 years. Most recently I was Volunteer and Involvement Lead for a homelessness charity. I supported people with lived experience to have a say in how the services they used were run. I also managed volunteers and events.

What do you enjoy most about your role?

I love bringing together different groups who wouldn't normally have a reason to interact with each other. Everyone has their own unique experiences and ideas, and it's interesting to see the different directions things can take when diverse perspectives collaborate.

The most interesting thing a tenant has ever said to you?

I had a lovely conversation with two of our older sheltered housing tenants talking about what Leith was like back when they were young. They were so passionate about Leith and Leithers.

What do you love most about Leith and north Edinburgh?

I love the sense of community in Leith. There are loads of great small businesses and shops, and it very much has its own character.

In your experience, what makes a great community?

Community is about pulling together for a shared purpose. This could be your physical neighbourhood or anyone with shared values and goals. I want to help tenants to improve their physical spaces and build local communities that people can thrive in.

What exciting things do you have coming up tenants can get involved with?

We will soon be looking for tenants to help test our online portal, support a project to improve our customer service and look at how we can communicate with tenants better.

"Community is about pulling together for a shared purpose."

There will be lots more available soon, so please get in touch and let me know what kind of things you might be interested in finding out about or getting involved in.

To contact Jenny, please call 07570 708964 or email jenny.whyte@harbour.scot.

What do we mean by 'tenant participation'?

Tenant participation is a two-way process where tenants and social landlords share information and ideas to improve services and build better communities.

This comes in many forms including meetings, surveys and groups to scrutinise how we work, and can include all areas of the organisation.

Over the next few months, we'll be redesigning some of our space, reviewing our customer service journeys, and looking at how we can improve the neighbourhoods we work in.

If you are interested in any of these projects and helping Harbour Homes to improve, please get in touch by calling or emailing Jenny Whyte jenny.whyte@harbour.scot (07570 708964). You can also scan the QR code below to fill out our involvement form.

Those who fill out our form will be invited to enter our £50 giveaway!

GET INVOLVED!

YOUR VIEWS COUNT

The feedback from this year's tenant satisfaction survey has been gathered.

Thank you to all of you who took part in our recent tenant satisfaction survey. Our market research partners, Knowledge Partnership, spoke to 1,260 of you.

We will share the results in our next newsletter. We'll tell you how your feedback will help us to improve our services and guide our priorities for the next few years.

We will also look at ways to further explore any themes which may arise from the survey with you, so we can work together to make sure our neighbourhoods are great places to live.

New faces at Harbour Homes: Board and leadership changes

We were pleased to welcome four new Board Members to Harbour Homes at our AGM on 23 September. Joining the Board are Mandy Mungall, Chris Litwiniuk, Sue Hoole, and Asif Sheikh. Together they bring experience of technology, governance, finance and community involvement to Harbour Homes.

The AGM marked the retirement of Caitlin McCorry, Kevin Anderson, and Liz McLean from the Board after a combined service of 24 years.

The Harbour Homes leadership team has also grown after welcoming three new directors. Chris Thomson (Group Director of Operations), Mike Gibson (Director of Group Strategic Finance and Assets) and Chris Ellis (Director of Group Corporate Services) joined in August.

CHANGES SCOTTISH TENANTS SHOULD BE AWARE OF

New legislation came into force in Scotland from 1 August 2026.

Following changes to the Housing (Scotland) Act 2025, The Scottish Government has published new model Scottish Secure Tenancy (SST) and Short Scottish Secure Tenancy (SSST) agreements.

Tenants in Scotland should be aware of these changes, as they may affect your tenancy rights and responsibilities. So, what's changed?

Domestic abuse and tenancy rights

As a social landlord, we have new powers to help victim-survivors of domestic abuse remain safely in their home, where that is appropriate and safe. In certain circumstances, we may be able to apply to the court to end the tenancy rights of someone who has behaved abusively and allow the tenancy to be transferred to the victim-survivor.

This is intended to reduce the risk that someone experiencing domestic abuse has to leave their home, community, school or support network as a result of the abuse. For more information, please see our Domestic Abuse Policy.

If you are affected by domestic abuse, or are worried about someone else, you can contact us in confidence on 0131 554 0403. If someone is in immediate danger, call the police on 999.

Succession rights

In some cases, if a tenant dies, the length of time the person who wishes to succeed to the tenancy must have lived in the property (as their only or principal home) has been reduced from 12 months to six months. This does not mean that every person living in a property will automatically be entitled to take over the tenancy. The succession rules still apply, including rules about the person's relationship to the tenant.

Rent increase notices

In some cases, we are now permitted to send rent increase notices by email.

Keeping pets

At Harbour Homes, tenants can request permission to keep a pet. This has now been set out in law. Where written permission is requested, landlords must not unreasonably refuse this and will respond to the request within one month.

Further changes from 6 October 2026

On page 12 we explain changes to repair duties (Awaab's Law) which came into force on 6 October.

HARBOUR
HOMES

AWAAB'S LAW

Did you know the law has changed in Scotland?

There are new rules for damp and mould under Awaab's Law.

If you see damp or mould in your home, tell us straight away.

10 We will investigate within 10 working days.

3 We will report back to you within three working days of the investigation.

5 We will start any necessary repairs within five working days of the investigation.

TELL US IF YOU SEE DAMP OR MOULD

0131 554 0403 hello@harbour.scot

How can we prevent damp and mould?

The longer damp and mould is left untreated, the greater the risk becomes.

In December 2020, a two-year old boy named Awaab Ishak died from a serious lung condition caused by mould in his home in England. To ensure that landlords deal with damp and mould quickly, Awaab's Law was introduced in Scotland on 6 October 2026.

If you spot damp or mould in your home, you should let us know immediately in the same way that you would report a repair.

What to look out for

Damp is caused by excess moisture. It can cause a fungus known as mould to grow. Mould can look like black, green or brown patches on walls, ceilings, or around windows.

Signs that you may have excess moisture in your home include:

- Mould growth on any surface
- Water droplets on windows, walls or ceilings caused by condensation
- A musty smell
- Loose or bubbling wallpaper, flaking paintwork
- Discoloured patches on walls or ceilings

Excess moisture can come from cooking, drying clothes, or using the bath and shower. These activities are unavoidable, but there are ways to remove excess moisture before it can lead to damp and mould.

How to remove excess moisture

The colder months can make it more challenging to tackle excess moisture in our homes. Whilst some condensation can be normal, it should not be excessive, persistent, or widespread. Here are some tips to reduce condensation at home:

- Use extractor fans in kitchens and bathrooms and wait until all visible moisture has cleared before turning these off
- Close doors when cooking or showering
- Cover pans when cooking
- If drying clothes indoors, open windows from time to time to release excess moisture. Keep the room door closed to keep the rest of your home warm when doing this
- Keep trickle vents open on windows as much as possible, particularly if you notice lots of condensation on your windows in the morning

Other causes of damp may be more serious, including rising damp from the ground (more common in older buildings), floods, or leaking pipes. We will investigate the source of any damp or mould reported to us.

Tell us if you see damp or mould at home

Email hello@harbour.scot or call us on 0131 554 0403 to report damp or mould.

HOW DO WE COMPARE WITH OTHER LANDLORDS?

We have published our Landlord Performance Report for 2025-26.

The report shows how we've performed against previous years, our own targets, and compared to other Scottish housing associations.

Tenant satisfaction and tenancy sustainment remain high. This is thanks to the early intervention work of our frontline staff and Tenant Advice Service.

While we performed well in many areas, we know there is room for improvement. Priorities for the coming year include reducing relet times and increasing opportunities for tenants to influence decisions that affect them.

You can read the full report online at harbour.scot/homes.

GAS & ELECTRICAL AUDITS

CORGI will be contacting some tenants to carry out gas and electrical safety audits.

As part of our gas and electrical compliance programme, we use an external auditor (CORGI) to carry out a small number of audits throughout the year.

Please be aware that you may occasionally be contacted directly by CORGI on our behalf. They will arrange a visit to carry out the audit at a time suitable to you.

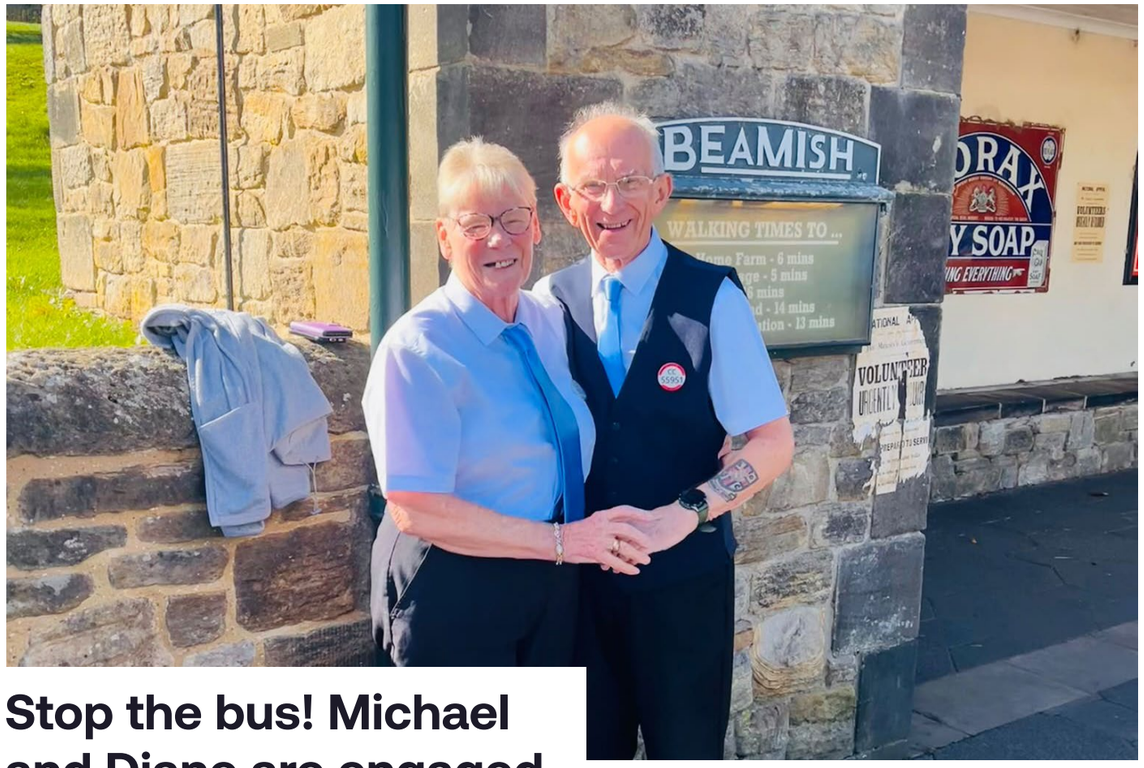

Sustainability progress

Look out for a new annual summary of our sustainability progress.

Harbour Homes has adopted the Sustainability Reporting Standard for Social Housing (SRS). This voluntary report will increase transparency around environmental and social impact. It will also bring more scrutiny to our sustainability aims.

The Scottish social housing sector has identified a need to make improvements, and as Leith's biggest social landlord, we are committed to playing our part.

Stop the bus! Michael and Diane are engaged

The proposal happened at a very special location.

A familiar face among neighbours at Hermitage Court, former tenant Michael has proposed to the love of his life Diane on board a bus!

Michael was once the driver of the Rotherham Corporation 220, and his now fiance was the conductress. The bus was used by passengers until 1971, after which it was converted to carry large illuminated panels (used regularly at Christmas time) until 1984.

The beautifully restored bus can now be found at the Beamish Museum where it shuttles visitors around the attraction.

Many congratulations to Michael and Diane on your engagement!

NEW BOOK RELEASE: SCOTT YOUNGER

Tenant and author known as "Mr Infrastructure" in Indonesia, Scott Younger, has released a new book.

Scott's new book, co-edited with geologist Jasper Cook, is titled 'Sustainable Development: Challenges and Assessment in Civil Engineering.'

Scott, known professionally as Dr. John Scott Younger, OBE, FICE is an expert in international infrastructure development and sustainable development. Having lived in the Far East for 42 years and in Indonesia for 34 years, and being involved in projects in ten different countries, Scott became known in the region as "Mr Infrastructure."

With three children in 1978, Scott and his wife June left for Bangkok and their life was never the same again. They moved to Hong Kong in the early 80s, then to the Indonesian mountains, living a stone's throw from an active volcano. Later they relocated to the rapidly-growing Jakarta.

When asked why readers should pick up his book, Scott said: "You have to be interested in sustainable living. Things are changing so fast. Look at space, and look at AI." Scott's book compiles different perspectives, including those of builders and civil engineers, to give real-world insights into the challenges the world faces today.

One of Scott's most memorable projects has to be the East Bali Poverty Project in the remote mountain hamlet, Manikaji, Bali. There he has contributed to transformational water, sanitation and hygiene interventions. Scott is now writing his memoirs, which are sure to be packed full of fascinating experiences and stories from projects like this one.

Summer memories

Tenants, Barry and Dean, made sure their garden was in full bloom this summer!

Their garden has been looking spectacular and the colourful flowers have been a cheery sight for neighbours this year.

WHAT IS A ‘MEANWHILE SITE’?

We’ve teamed up with Earth in Common to transform one of our vacant spaces until it can be used for affordable housing.

Wander around any big town or city and you’ll likely spot empty spaces or vacant buildings, waiting for something to happen there. We have one such site at Wellington Place beside Leith Links. The long-term plan for this space is that one day, it will be developed to provide much-needed affordable housing.

We asked the question, what can we do with the space in the meantime?

Meanwhile sites spring up in empty shops or vacant spaces until long-term planning decisions come to life. Imagine a skate park in a disused multi-story car park, or a pop-up cafe in a shipping container for example. To develop our own meanwhile site, we have partnered with Earth in Common.

What is it being used for now?

At Wellington Place, the land is being transformed into a plant nursery for growing food for the benefit of the local community. The site will provide a year-round space for raising vegetable seedlings and wildflowers, supporting local food growing.

This will create opportunities for volunteering, training and hands-on learning, particularly for local schools and young people.

Native wildflower planting will provide habitats for pollinators, birds and insects, helping to strengthen biodiversity and connect local green spaces.

Community-led

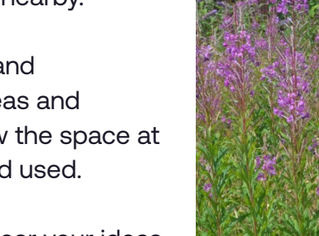

Most importantly, this is a community-led project. The future of this site is being shaped by the people who live and work nearby.

Through ongoing conversations and community consultation, local ideas and priorities are helping to guide how the space at Wellington Place is developed and used.

Earth in Common would love to hear your ideas on how the space should be shaped. Go to earth-in-common.org/contact to get in touch.

About Earth in Common

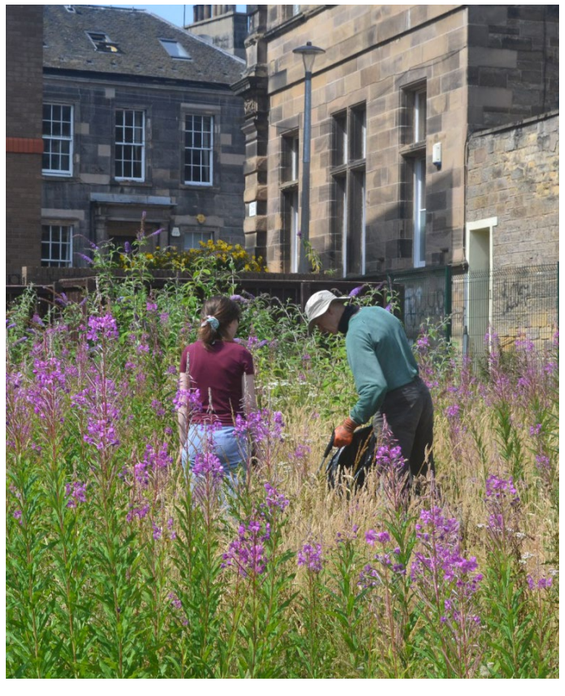

Earth in Common is a community charity in Leith, working to improve lives by transforming underused spaces into places where people, food and nature can flourish.

The charity champions sustainable food growing, biodiversity, and opportunities for children and adults to connect with the natural world.

Through collaboration with local communities, it is helping build a healthier, fairer and more resilient future for people and the planet. Say hello just across the road, at the Populus Café at Leith Community Croft where it all began.

Below: Work begins with volunteers on hand to develop the meanwhile site.

Have you tried the drop-in Tenant Advice Service?

If you're looking for advice, you are welcome to visit our office on the last Tuesday of the month between 10:00am and 12:30pm to speak to one of our advisors. This is a free, no appointment necessary service for Harbour tenants at 108 Constitution Street in Leith.

Come along for advice on money matters (eg budgeting and debt), benefits (eg benefit applications or checks), welfare rights, and tenancy sustainment. Please note there will be no drop-in on Tuesday 29 December when our office is closed for the holidays.

Just moved in? Here's a handy checklist

WE'RE HERE TO HELP

For advice or assistance with anything on this list, email TenantAdvice@harbour.scot or call 0131 554 0403 and ask to speak with the Tenant Advice Service.

CHECK LIST

AT THE START OF YOUR TENANCY

- ☐ Tell Universal Credit (UC) your new address and housing costs.
- ☐ Apply for Council Tax and any reductions you may be eligible for.
- ☐ Take meter readings and transfer utility bills to your name.
- ☐ Source flooring, furniture and appliances.
  Grant assistance may be available, please contact us.
- ☐ Set up contents insurance to protect your belongings.
  Thistle Tenant Risk Home & Contents Insurance is recommended by The Scottish Federation of Housing Associations.

HEATING YOUR HOME

We know that many tenants may be worried about energy costs during the colder months. Taking steps to save energy can help keep costs down, such as:

- Turning your thermostat down by just one degree
- Moving furniture away from radiators to let heat circulate
- Using a basin when washing dishes rather than letting the tap run
- Using energy-saving light bulbs
- Washing clothes at 30°C
- Turning appliances off at the wall
- Only filling the kettle with the water needed
- Taking showers instead of baths

If you are struggling to heat your home over winter, our Tenant Advice Service may be able to help. Email TenantAdvice@harbour.scot or call 0131 554 0403 to speak to the team.

The services below also offer free advice if you are concerned about energy bills and keeping your home warm.

Energy Advice
You can request free, practical energy related advice from energyadvice.scot or by calling 0808 196 8660.

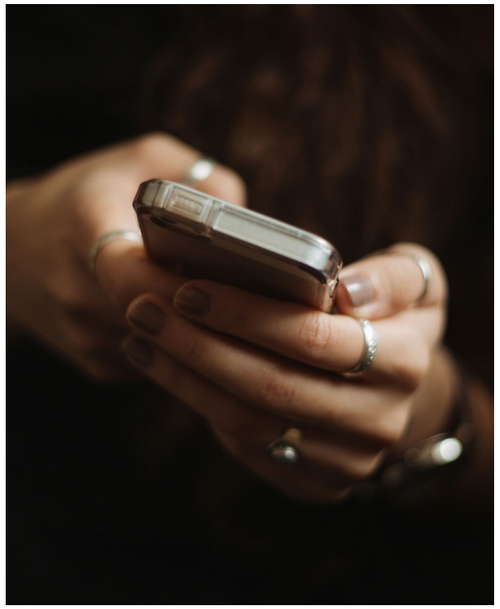

Changeworks
If you struggle with keeping your home warm, dry and comfortable, or are worried about gas and electricity bills, Changeworks' affordable warmth team can help. To refer yourself to the service, visit changeworks.org.uk/referral.

Scams to look out for in the lead up to Christmas

At this time of year, scammers like to target busy and distracted Christmas shoppers. Common and convincing scam attempts include parcel delivery scams, bank impersonation calls, utility provider scams, fake giveaways, and parking fine scams.

If a message appearing to be from a retailer, courier or bank makes you feel rushed or pressured into taking action, stop and think before you click on any links or pay. If in doubt, contact the company directly using the customer service details on their official website.

If you encounter a scam, reporting it helps protect others. Report Fraud is the UK's national reporting centre. Go to reportfraud.police.uk.

Should we go digital?

We'd love to hear your thoughts on how we can improve The Wave. The tenant magazine is currently issued as a paper copy twice a year.

We'd like to know whether you would prefer to receive the magazine digitally, and whether you feel the frequency and content is right for you.

A short questionnaire is available on our website. If you can, please take a few moments to tell us what you think.

Tell us what you think at harbour.scot/wave or email comms@harbour.scot with your feedback.

Fun festive activities to join this winter

We will be running some festive activities throughout north Edinburgh this winter!

If you'd like to be the first to hear about what's going on, contact jenny.whyte@harbour.scot (07570 708964) to add your name to the list.

You can also scan the QR code below to make sure you don't miss a thing.
